E. T. DINNER AT EIGHT TO-MORROW

Members of the Club Are Urged To Be On Time.

Among the guests at the Eastern Townships Club dinner, to be held in the Union Grill Room to-morrow night, will be Sir Arthur Currie, the Hon. Sydney Fisher, LL.D., the Hon. Walter Mitchell, Provincial Treasurer and A. R. McMaster, K.C., M.P. for Bromo. Besides these the Club will entertain representatives from the Western Club, the American Club, the Newfoundland Club, the Maritime Club and the Cosmopolitan Club.

Dinner will be served at eight o'clock. The menu is in the hands of Mr. Darvill, manager of the Union Cafeteria, and consists of seven courses. The programme is to include four toasts, and music will be furnished during the meal and between speeches by a College orchestra under the management of F. G. Adney. Everything should be run through without a hitch, as preparations have been going on for a long time.

Tickets may still be obtained from any member of the executive or at the door. The different class representatives have tried to see every man interested, but it has been found quite impossible to get completely around; hence any one who has not been offered a ticket is urged to come without one, but to be prepared to loosen up on his two dollars at the door.

The executive would be glad if all men intending to go home by way of Sherbrooke at Christmas sign the list posted in the Union. The Maritime Club is trying to get a car for the holidays, and it might be well if the E. T. Club could go as far as Sherbrooke, at least, with them. It would certainly afford opportunities of getting acquainted with men from that part of the country, even though the trip takes only about four hours.

TICKETS FOR DANCE SOLD IMMEDIATELY

Within Twenty Minutes No
More Were Left.

FOURTEEN DANCES.

New Arrangement For Refreshments Will Be Tried Out.

Tickets for the Informal Dance, to be held in the Union Friday night, were sold within a very few minutes of the opening of the box-office yesterday noon. Many men who had intended going were disappointed; it is unfortunate that more cannot be admitted, but with the limited floor-space any further crowding would make dancing intolerable. There are still several informal dances to be run through this winter, and those who were not able to get in this time can line up earlier for the next.

Refreshments will be served on a new plan. Instead of dancing being suspended for an hour or so after the seventh dance, the dining room of the Union will be open between the fifth and ninth dances continuously; and there will be an intermission of fifteen minutes between the seventh dance and the first extra. This system is being tried out to obviate the usual curtailment of the last few dances. It has been found impossible to obtain an extension of the four hour time limit, and some means of getting in all the dances before twelve had to be devised.

In making up programmes, guests are requested to make allowance for the new supper arrangements. It is also desirable that every one reach the Union on time, as dancing will start at 8.15 sharp, whether there is anyone there or not. One of the chief causes of dissatisfaction at past dances was the late arrival of the majority of the guests, which disorganized the programme and made it imperative that the last items be cut short.

SIR ARTHUR CURRIE.

It will be of interest to McGill students to know that General Sir Arthur Currie was appointed yesterday afternoon to the board of directors of the Bank of Montreal to serve in this connection on a board which already features such distinguished names as those of Lord Shaughnessy, Sir Vincent Meredith, Sir Charles Gordon, Lt.-Col. Herbert Molson, D. Forbes-Angus, Esq., J. H. Ashdown, Esq., E. W. Beattie, K.C., etc. Sir Lomer Gouin, former Premier of Quebec was also appointed to the board which now includes eighteen names instead of the former sixteen. The "Daily" begs to offer its congratulations to Sir Arthur Currie and to Sir Lomer Gouin on this honor.

ALL-COLLEGE PUBLICATION COMING SOON

"Annual" Abandoned For More Universal Edition.

INITIATIVE OF '22.

Editorial Board Formed With
Mr. A. S. Noad Editor.

As a matter of tradition and sentiment, the "Old Annual" has, for the last twenty-three years, been continued by the long line of Junior Years with a fair measure of success. During the last few years, however, the success of the publication has been of rather a doubtful nature, for although it may have maintained the tradition with a theoretical success, the publication has been losing out. From a circulation that was large and substantial, it dwindled down until practically only the Junior Years were its subscribers. From a self-supporting institution, the publication has with startling rapidity slumped into an enormous burden on the various classes, and a matter of personal liability on the personnel of its executive.

After a fortnight's deliberation, the representatives to the Board from the classes of '22, in conference at the R.V.C. last evening, passed the following resolution: "That, in view of the difficulty of getting the necessary organization for the editing and issuing of the Annual as in former years, the class of 1922 desires to discontinue the McGill Annual, and to substitute for it an all-college publication." That resolution has evolved out of campus-wide discussion, as the only logical and possible solution to the publication question. The question of keeping the old tradition was felt very keenly by the classes of '22—some of the classes went on record as wishing to keep up the tradition despite the chances of financial chaos. But in several cases, it was with considerable hesitancy that the classes gave their consent; the deciding factor was the resolution passed by Arts '22 to the effect that "they opposed the publication of the Annual." With Arts on the sidelines, it was realized that any attempt at editorial organization would be futile—when appealed to, the other faculties were unwilling to furnish the organization to carry on an Annual with a dissenting Junior Year—hence, the "Old Annual" is no more.

PRACTICE FOR HOCKEY TEAMS

Seniors and Intermediates
Will Start Work To-Day.

"Shag" wandered into the "Daily" office last night with an interesting bit of information for the student body, or those members of it who are interested in hockey.

It will probably be some time before the rinks are in shape for practice, and the teams cannot afford to wait any longer before starting to get into shape for the various series which are to be run through this winter. Hence a practice will be held in the ball room of the Union at 5.15 to-night for all men who have an eye on one of the Senior Teams or the Intermediate line-up; all men are requested to bring gym. shoes and clothing suitable for indoor work.

It is essential that every one who wants to make one of the College teams be present at these practices. The lack of ice is going to curtail the season to such an extent that indoor work-outs will have to be carried on continuously if the players are to get into condition.

Every undergraduate who is at all interested in the sport will have a chance at a team this season—as besides the two Senior, the Intermediate and the Junior College teams, there will be class teams organized in every year and every department of the University. The schedule for class hockey is practically arranged, and each class will be given its practice hours shortly. Class hockey will be featured especially all year, and the winning teams in the various Faculties will play off for the Copper Trophy and numerals.

CYNICISM

It was Robert Louis Stevenson who said that there was no happier man than the cynic. From the assumed elevation of his own fancied superiority he could look down upon the masses of the mediocre and pass judgment. Not for him were the minor disabilities and shortcomings of the plodder — by his own mental attitude he had placed himself aloof and apart, and, encased within his armour of cynicism, he could disregard the wrath of those upon whom his disparagement might fall.

There can be no gainsaying the undoubted advantages of the mental attitude which we call cynicism, if we are to consider as an advantage a fancied and self-bestowed superiority over the common run of humanity. Though he may not have one-tenth the staying power nor the resolution of one of these plodders your cynic may discount that and more by a few barbed words which carry with them the implication of condescension and superiority. To some types of minds it is undoubtedly pleasant to be in a position to do this sort of thing—their little souls are stirred with the thought that they, in some indefinable way, are on a different plane from the ordinary grubbing mortal. Their views on things is "de haut en bas"—they are spectators (and critical spectators) who have all the fun of the game with none of the exertion.

Such types of abnormality undoubtedly exist within McGill to-day. Some perhaps, have been taught to believe, from their earliest days, that they possessed a fine gift of sarcasm, and they have since sedulously cultivated the requisite sneer when they say anything they deem particularly cutting. Or they may be hopeless dilettantes whose pathetic attempts to lay hold on something that will yield them material gain reminds one forcibly of a butterfly trying to gather honey. In such cases sheer envy is the motive that prompts them to disparage the accomplishment of tasks they have not sufficient application to perform. Others, again, may have a certain modicum of brains which they endeavor to use to their best advantage, until realizing the fatal facility of the cynic's attitude, they decide to conserve their limited brain-power and subside heavily into the Scornor's Chair.

Whatever be the reasons that impel so many of our brightest fellow-students to devote themselves exclusively to criticism, the fact remains that they are doing themselves a great wrong. They are missing, hopelessly missing, the best things in college life. They are grown old before their time and, besides, they are making themselves ridiculous. There are few sights more diverting, or at the same time more pathetic, than that of a juvenile Diogenes. Etymologically, the word "cynic" connotes a dog, but we feel sure that it cannot be construed to mean a puppy.

The remedy for this pathological and morbid condition of the mind is beautifully simple—and will probably be followed by none of those affected. It consists simply in trying to sink their over-enlarged Ego in some form of self-effacing, generous labor for the common good, and in striving, honestly and painstakingly, to add their little mite to the great sum-total of Things Done. Until they can bring themselves to do this, our little band of tame cynics must remain as abnormalities, incapable of assimilation into the body-corporate of the University and as such, a heavy liability upon the credit of McGill.

McGill University,
6th December, 1920.

To the Editor, "McGill Daily."

Dear Sir,—
My feelings have been so harrowed that this outburst can no longer be controlled. I fear permanent optical injury from the chromatic discords on the campus.

I refer to the wearing of red and white ribbon on the person, when in "clivies." There are, Sir, no finer colors in the world, they are unsurpassed in mural ornament or on a book cover; these colors strike terror into the hearts of adversaries and cheer our stalwarts to victory, but, and it is a Big But, they do not harmonize with green hats, brown overcoats, blue serges and grey tweeds.

To-day the student in his first year is liberally treated in regard to insignia which he may have won by his exertions. It is even a question whether in certain cases he should not be even more generously dealt with by Officialdom. Yet there exists hordes who have done nothing and yet seek to advertise their insufficiency blatantly by hoisting the "danger signal" in utter disregard of the canons of good taste.

I say "danger-signal" advisedly—before the War, in the days of my verdancy, had I dared to exhibit the forbidden symbol I had been mobbed even before the tomb of our Benefactor. Many a time and oft have I seen swift justice meted out to offenders in this respect. But alas, Troy has been, and there are none left to execute vengeance. O tempora, O mores.

SENEX.

To the Editor, "McGill Daily."

Dear Sir,—
I am sorry to be writing again on an old subject. But although the same suggestions have been made before, no definite action has as yet been taken by the Dance Committee. It is to the question of rendezvous at the informal dances that I wish to turn their attention. Anyone who has been to any of the dances knows how hard it is to find one's partner in the general rush at the beginning of each number, and that much of the music is thereby wasted. If one knew exactly where to find the person for whom one is seeking the task would be comparatively light, and a great saving of time and energy would result. Another matter also is the announcing of each dance. If some signal could be given about two minutes or so before each dance begins our troubles would be still more eased. In fact, if these two suggestions were put into practice the dances would come as near to perfection as an informal affair possibly can.

Yours truly,

ACTION.

To the Editor, "McGill Daily."

Dear Sir,—
Mr. "Anxious" in his letter to the "Daily" on Saturday charges me with receiving second hand information regarding the Constitution under discussion. In my defense I wish to inform him that I was present at the executive meeting which drew up the constitution and hence had a very intimate knowledge concerning it. I am pleased to say that representatives of the different colleges, representing also the different viewpoints, met on Saturday morning and as a result this matter has now been amicably settled and I trust this will bring the controversy to a close.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I am,
Yours truly,
NORMAN E. PETERSON.

To the Editor, "McGill Daily."

Dear Sir,—
Your issue of Saturday contained an interesting communication relating to Inter-class Hockey. It was suggested that selected teams from the Faculties would be a more appropriate method of deciding inter-faculty honors on the ice, since none other than members of a given year are interested in the athletic achievements of their companions.

This criticism hardly seems justifiable. In the first place, hockey talent is badly wanted, and in any event a future supply must be secured. There is ample material

Spud Gets Through To The Hon. Mr. Fyfe-Smith

(By Gen.)

"Hello, Ritz-Carlton? I wanna speak to Mister Fyfe-Smith, of McGill University, an' show a leg, will you?"

"Are you theah?"

"Hello, Mister Fyfe-Smith? Dis is Spud, de 'McGill Daily' office boy speakin'."

"Oh, Really! How Deucedly jolly of you to call me up, Spud."

"Dat's all right, Algic, ole sport. You gimme a coffin nail onet an' I ain't forget it, see!"

"Really, now, I can't recall the occasion, my dear Spud. Pray what's new on the Rialto and all that sort of thing?"

"Well, it's dis way. I'm still collectin' mazzun fer de campaign, an' if you could come acrost wit a few berries, it would be all de chocolate caramel—are you Hector?"

"But my dear Spud, I don't assimilate your meaning—oh, not at all. I gather that you are soliciting funds for the very worthy object of assisting the old Coll in her time of need, but I utterly fail to see the connection between the jolly little berry, the chocolate sweet and an individual called Hector. Really, my ancestral bean is all agog!"

"Aw, cut out de Chataqua and make a landing, Algic—how much can I slap you down fer?"

"Oh now I catch your drift. Well old thing, this will hinge entirely on the dear old governor's gout when he receives my cable."

"Dat's K.O. Algic. Lissen kid—was you up to Kingston wit de gang?"

"Really Spud, I fawncy I'll get a bit of a tiff on it awak any more redundant questions. Do you imagine that I was carousing in some wine-room or resort of similar nature when the old fourteen was struggling so heroically—avaunt. I fawncy the Kingstonians will recall, in days of yore, the vigorous and lusty huzzas emanating from my vicinity as our brave lads fought back their opponents."

"Dat's de gravy, old pie-face. Dey give us de razzo, but we'll get 'em next year, huh!"

"Bravo, Spud! spoken like a true son of Old McGill. We will undoubtedly obtain them next year or my name is Dennis! By the by, Spud, is there any truth in the rumor that our worthy friends, the Law Students, are going to get a new edifice in which to pursue their legal studies?"

"Well, I was rollin' 'em yesterday wit Whiffle himself an' he said he'd swallow de Revised Statutes whole if dey didn't get a new shack."

"How splendid of Whiffletree—always up and ready to sacrifice himself on the altar of his faculty! Well, Spud, old comrade, I must not tarry, for I've an appointment at the tea hour with a certain delectable R.V.C. flapper—plop, plop."

"S'long Algic, don't forget the donashon of Callabogie!"

ENGLISH RUGBY DINNER AT $2

List in Union Was Torn Down—New One Substituted.

The executive of the English Rugby has decided to cut the price of the dinner to be held Monday next to two dollars. It is felt that a much better turn out will be secured in this way.

The list which was posted in the Union some time ago for signatures of all those intending to be present has been torn down. As a result, a new one has been posted, and all those who signed before, as well as any other men who can arrange to come, are requested either to place their names upon the list or to notify one of the following of their intention to attend, before Tuesday evening:—
A. L. Patterson—Uptown, 1765.

MED. UNDERGRADS MEET THURSDAY

In Evening and Not In the Morning as Announced Yesterday.

The meeting of the Medical Undergraduate Society will be held this week on Thursday night at 8.15, in the assembly hall of the New Medical Building. It was impossible to hold the meeting on the usual night, as Prof. J. L. Todd, who is to deliver the address, could not be present on Monday night. The subject of his lecture will be "The Typhus Commission to Poland," and the executive request a large attendance to hear Prof. Todd speak on this most interesting and instructive topic. It is greatly to be regretted that the Med. Freshman-Sophomore dinner is to be held on the same evening, but if the remaining years turn out to a man, the hall will be well filled. The meeting will be held Thursday night, and not Thursday morning, as was advertised in yesterday's "Daily."

INNOVATIONS IN SYSTEM OF BIBLE STUDY

Supper Served Every Monday
By Fire-Place

WITH MUSIC.

Increased Attendance Last
Night Justified Departure
From Old System.

Before a blazing grate in the reading-room of Strathcona Hall, some thirty men met for the Bible Study supper last night. The committee decided to hold this supper in the reading-room as a departure from the usual method of serving it in the more or less cheerless and uncomfortable committee-room at the back of the Hall. The increased turnout would seem to justify the improvement. It is as easy as not to make things comfortable for the groups, and those in charge are anxious to do their best to add an informal and cozy touch to the weekly meetings. In addition to the usual menu of soups, beans, stacks of bread, butter to spare, and generous goblets of cake and ice cream, the Association phonograph furnished music during the meal.

The committee has for a long time debated the question of discontinuing the supper altogether. It was felt that not only did it not interest the men, but that it even kept away a few super-sensitive souls who are opposed to mixing "Beans and Bible-study." However, it is such a convenience to men to be able to get a good, solid supper, sharp at six, and immediately to proceed to study without having to come down from Westmount or other inaccessible parts of the island, that it was deemed wise to carry it on. By starting sharp at six, the committee has found that the classes have entirely finished their study and discussion by seven-thirty, and that their evening is in no way interfered with.

Next Monday night, sharp at six again, the supper will be served in the reading-room of the Hall, with the fire-place burning and with music as an accompaniment to the gurgle of coffee and the clink of dishes. The purely nominal charge of thirty cents barely covers cost of materials.

A large attendance is requested and hoped for. Those men who turned out at the beginning of the year are asked to make an effort to be present, and to bring any of their friends who are interested in the informal discussions which are held once a week under the Sharman system.

AT THE NEW GRAND

Norma Talmadge, in a photo dramatic adaption of Oliver D. Bailey's play "Branded," is being shown all this week by special request at the New Grand Theatre in the film version entitled "The Branded Woman." "The Branded Woman" is Ruth Sawyer brought up in ignorance that her mother runs a gambling joint. Ruth's grandfather, Judge Whitlock, keeps the innocent young girl's mind free from contamination of any kind until she has graduated from a refined school for young ladies. Then the mother's past is revealed, and Ruth becomes ostracized. The unnatural mother, to spite Judge Whitlock, carries Ruth off to the demoralizing atmosphere of her gambling den and makes her downfall as good as assured, but she is rescued by Judge Whitlock. The judge turns match-maker by carrying Ruth away on a ship bearing a friend of his, Douglas Courtney, who has a diplomatic mission in Paris. He keeps the young people together, and moonlight does the rest. Courtney and his wife live happily together in Paris for three years. Then comes Velvet Graft, partner of Ruth's mother in the gambling house. The place has been closed and the mother lost her life in a hotel fire. Graft is out of funds, but he has a newspaper account of the mother's death with him, and he uses it to blackmail Ruth.

David S. Levin and his orchestra play the musical accompaniment.

Variety In Writing

Some one, after detailing an elaborate recipe for salad, wound up the enumeration of ingredients and quantities with the advice to "open the window and throw it all away." This advice might be applied to the foregoing enumeration of the laws of style, unless these were supplemented by the important law of Variety. A style which rigidly interpreted the precepts of economy, simplicity, sequence, and climax, which rejected all superfluous words and redundant ornaments, adopted the easiest and most logical arrangement, and closed every sentence and every paragraph with a climax, might be a very perfect bit of mosaic, but would want the glow and movement of a living mind. Monotony would settle on it like a paralyzing frost. . . . But without invoking extreme cases, let us simply remember . . . that it is . . . easy for sentences to be too compact . . . and that many a happy negligence, which to microscopic criticism may appear defective, will be the means of giving clearness and grace to a style. Of course the indolent indulgence in this laxity robs style of all grace and power. But monotony in the structure of sentences, monotony of cadence, monotony of climax, monotony everywhere, necessarily defeats the very aim and end of style; it calls attention to the manner; it blunts the sensibilities; it renders excellencies odious.

And how is Variety to be secured? The plan is simple, but like many other simple plans, is not without difficulty. It is for the writer to obey the great cardinal principle of Sincerity and be brave enough to express himself in his own way, following the moods of his own mind, rather than endeavoring to catch the accents of another, or to adapt himself to some standard of taste. No man really feels and thinks monotonously. If he is monotonous in his manner in setting forth his thoughts and feelings, that is either because he has not learned the art of writing, or because he is more or less consciously imitating the manner of others. The subtle play of thought will give movement to his style if he does not clog it with critical superlatives. I do not say that it will give him grace and power; I do not say that relying on perfect sincerity will make him a fine writer, because sincerity will not give talent, but I say that sincerity will give him all the power that is possible to him, and will secure him the inestimable excellence of Variety.—George Henry Lewes.

STUDENTS WILL MANAGE TEAMS

University of California Has Decided to Adopt This System and Give Letter.

After a two months' trial period the University of California has decided to adopt the plan of student management for athletics permanently. Tryouts will be on a competitive basis and an athletic letter will be the reward to successful candidates.

When the semester opened last fall the plan was taken under consideration by the executive committee of the Associated Students of the University and favorably reported. Announcement of tryouts was made and a large number of students signed up for the work. The duties of the undergraduate range from water boy on the football field, a position delegated to sophomores, to student manager of football, which position is being held by C. S. Honeywell '21. The student manager is in charge of all athletic equipment for his sport, makes arrangements for reservations on trips and supervises the training quarters. In return for this service it is planned to award an athletic letter to the sport handled by the manager. Tryouts begin in the sophomore year and the number of aspirants is cut down every semester until final choice is made and the appointment confirmed by the student executive committee and the graduate manager, in the senior year.

It is thought that this plan will develop renewed interest in the various lines of athletics. It will also provide a new field of competitive activity for members of the student body who cannot go in for athletics. This percentage is necessarily large in a student body the size of that at California this year. Eastern universities report great success with the system, which has been in use there for some years.

THEATRES

PRINCESS.

This week's offering at the Princess Theatre is one of unusual merit, embracing various types of art, most of them interesting — some otherwise. The scope of this variety comprised everything from a heart-breaking rendition of the broken melody on the bassoon to the slapstick, side-splitting humor of Harry Tighe and Edna Leedom.

The Ford Sisters readily succeeded in heading the bill by their excellent performance. They had gorgeous costumes and know how to wear them, and combined with their attractive beauty easily copped first place in the evening's entertainment. Their dances were executed with skill and ability. An indifferent band helped them out occasionally.

Ruth Roy came a close second in meriting a large share of the evening's applause. As usual, her irresistible pep and versatile characterizations kept her audience in good humor.

Harry Holman, in "Hard-bolled Hampton," presented an excellent skit. His work is full of originality and the dialogue never slows up. Tears of laughter come at the commencement and tears of sorrow come at the end.

Charles Semon, a tall, long and lank individual, played on a variety of strange, weird and cacophonous instruments.

Frank Peck and Jack McIntyre gave some comical dialogue, which, unfortunately, lagged at certain times. A song entitled "Why Didn't I Study to be a Doctor?" as rendered by Mr. Peck should be fully appreciated by our medical students. The Richards, and Worden Brothers, also the Pathe News, filled out the bill.

This show must be seen to be appreciated.

GAYETY

One of the best performances staged in the Gayety Theatre this season appeared Monday, when Barney Gerard presented Jos. K. Watson and Will H. Cohan in the play entitled, "Bankers and Brokers."

Although a burlesque, the play contained a good amount of satire regarding deals made in Wall Street, which ought to be of interest to students. The main characters of the performance, Watson and Cohan, possess much talent in controlling an audience, and for this reason made the filled theatre laugh heartily every moment they appeared.

The cast of supporters is among the best obtainable. Misses Anna Prapp and Momi Kalama deserve credit for their dancing, especially the latter, who gave an excellent exhibition of the "Hula Hula" dance, and Miss Betty Evans for her singing.

Messrs. Kao, SImp, Thomas and Green, gave an excellent exhibition of good acting. Each man played his part to perfection. Added to the regular "show," Mr. Stitkin, alias Jos. K. Watson, presented a monologue to the audience which is well worth hearing.

The performance concluded with an exhibition of vaudeville in which each member of the cast took part.

As a whole, the show was very good, and is well worth seeing.

ORPHEUM.

The Orpheum Players are playing the comedy-drama "39 East" to large and appreciative audiences this week. The play affords those who stop to think a deep study of human nature, while there is a rich vein of good healthy humor throughout, but especially in the first act. This first act, by the way, can truthfully be said to be one of the funniest acts played in Montreal. Each character is afforded opportunity for bringing down a laugh, and they certainly grasp their opportunities well. The second act lacks some of this humor, but this is made up for in emotional effect. Wit again crops up in the third act.

The story relates the adventures of an innocent (too innocent) country girl, who comes to New York seeking fame by her voice. She goes to a "select" boarding house (39 East Ave.) and tries to obtain a position in a choir. She is unsuccessful, and eventually takes a position in a burlesque chorus, much against her will.

She meets a young man at the boarding house who falls in love with her and tries to help her out of her financial difficulties. She also occasions much gossip by coming in late from the chorus and by her affair with the young man. However, everything is cleared up satisfactorily, and the story comes to a happy ending.

The play as a whole is excellent, and the interest is sustained throughout. William Naughten as the young man carried off his part very well, and he and Miss Knight (as the country girl) are the outstanding figures in the cast. Among the others, Mary Hill, as the refined landlady, presented a very human character. A. S. Byron and Eleanor Carleton provide not a little of the humor of the play.

LOEW'S.

This week's show at Loew's is one of unusual merit. It is undoubtedly the best show seen there in recent months. All acts are decidedly good and are worthy of more than usual notice.

Hite and Reflow in a musical and dancing number quite captivated the audience. This act is most delightfully set and admirably executed.

Van Horn also was greeted with well-earned rounds of applause. His songs are not only new but are sung in a very fine voice.

The Futuristic Revue certainly created a pleasant surprise. It is not often on the vaudeville stage that artists of such merit are heard. Their numbers were accorded an enthusiastic reception.

Cooper and Lane, two darky comedians, were much appreciated.

The Golden Whirl, closing the vaudeville part of the bill, are a trio of clever aerial performers.

The feature picture, a Griffith production, is worthy of more than passing praise. Every scene bears the marks of expert direction. The play deals with the trials and hardships of a father who is a fugitive from justice, and his daughter, who shares his exile with him. The ending is most unusual and dramatic. In all, this picture is certainly the best of Griffith's recent productions.

Loew's Weekly, replete with scenes of recent happenings, closes the bill.

UPPER OR LOWER.

"Let me have sleeping accommodations on the train to Ottawa," I said to the man at the window, who didn't seem at all concerned whether I took the trip or stayed at home.

"For a single passenger?" he finally inquired.

"No," I replied. "I'm married, but I'm not taking anybody with me. A single shelf will answer."

"Upper or lower?" he asked.

"What's the difference?" I inquired.

"A difference of fifty cents," came the answer. "Our prices to Ottawa are $1.50 and $2.00."

"Then let me have a lower," I said.

"You understand, of course," explained the agent, "the lower is higher than the upper. The higher price is for the lower berth. If you want it lower you'll have to go higher. We sell the upper lower than the lower because the upper is higher than the lower. It didn't used to be so, but we found everybody wanted the lower. In other words, the higher the fewer."

"Why do they all prefer the lower?" I broke in.

"On account of its convenience," he replied. "Most persons don't like the upper, although it's lower, on account of its being higher, and because when you occupy an upper you have to get up when you go to bed and then get down when you get up. Now, if you don't care to get up to go to bed and to get down to get up I would advise you to take a lower although it's higher than the upper. For the reason, as I have stated, that the upper is lower than the lower because it is higher. You can have the lower if you pay higher; but if you're willing to go higher it will be lower."

When he got through elucidating I was seick and decided that I wouldn't go at all if I could get out of it.—Dalhousie Gazette.

THE WAY TO WISDOM.

The age of miracles is not past; this statement will be accepted at least by those who pass an examination at University without that previous study so recommended by the teacher and so lightly regarded by what has become an appallingly large percentage of those who have the idea of a career somewhat dimly outlined in their minds. Fortunately for the race there is a strong bracing air of scepticism in our modern atmosphere which demands a satisfactory proof for unsubstantiated statements, but we often find people who have apparently sealed up their intellectual windows for fear of contagion.

Superstition is an old institution and it is difficult to find one person absolutely free from it; and though it is not recorded that anyone in a position of political influence in this or any other civilized country carries around with him a rabbit's foot or throws salt over his shoulder, yet it is very amusing to observe the hopeless credulity of some of our neighbors. A tipping table excites in them an immediate and implicit belief in spiritism and their intervention in our everyday affairs. Never shall I forget the instructions given by a firm believer in spiritualism, as it is called, as to a beautiful method for conversing with our departed friends. Of simplicity it possessed an alarming amount; of dignity nothing at all. An ordinary key was to be suspended from the ceiling by a string and was to come to a position of rest inside an ordinary glass tumbler. A code was to be written down nearby for the education of the shades in the language in which he or she might reply. If the key rattled once it might mean "yes"; twice would be "no"; thus could we sit down for a chat with the great departed. While listening to this simple and efficient method being explained I could not help observing that the audience listened attentively as if they could already see Alexander, Caesar or even George Washington anxiously hanging around to shake the string and make the key record the eternal message that they were happy etc., etc., ad nauseum. Some day I intend to shut myself up and experiment in this manner for I am myself most eager to get Beelzebub himself on the line—that is if he can spare me the time; I don't see why he shouldn't for I think my support has been as consistent as that afforded him by any other student of morality.

To what lengths will we not go for the complete satisfaction of our wonderings of an after-life? After all I think we are just as curious about the present. I know a fellow student who tearfully implored "Oujia" for a revelation; he wanted to know what part of Ovid he would find on an approaching examination paper; he was told and lo! he found it as he had had it revealed unto him. Here, then, is a method of passing examinations! Why in common sense did we not think of it years ago? What method of poking out the professorial eye could be more easily carried out? But a warning is necessary. Lured on by hopes of a brilliant coup, another tried the scheme and failed—Oujia had lied! Thinking his modus operandi had not been according to the best traditions of Oujia interviewers, he compared his technique with his more fortunate friend; the only difference was that he had not shed copious tears during the experiment. Could it be indeed true that a saline solution was the more acceptable to this fickle jade? If such were true then surely a skunk or a spouting whale would have his dearest wishes granted. My friend is now a sceptic.

To the casual observer it will be apparent that the best subject for mediocrity buffoonery is a nervous, studious, credulous person who wants to know a great deal more than is good for him. Consequently it will be at once perceived by anyone only slightly acquainted with the mental gymnastics of college men and women, that a University is a poor hunting ground for the impecunious juggler and pedlar in omniscience. For these and other blessings we are devoutly grateful.

First League Basketball Games Wednesday.

WORKING HARD.

Senior, Intermediate and Junior Squads Open Season Simultaneously.

The Senior, Intermediate and Junior teams are putting the final touch to their Basketball practices in preparation for the City League Basketball games.

Last night "Hans" Wagner was on the job putting the Junior "A" and "B" teams through a stiff workout at the Molson Hall Gymnasium. After a short practice on different passes was held, the two teams were lined up and a snappy game was played. The men were showing good signs of improvement in all their playing, and their combination is especially noteworthy.

On Wednesday night the following McGill teams will play their first scheduled games:

Senior.
McGill vs. Central Y.M.C.A.
Intermediate.
McGill "A" vs. Central Y.M.C.A.
McGill "B" vs. National A.A.A.
Junior.
West. A.A.A. vs. McGill "A."
M.A.A.A. vs. McGill "B."
The Senior and Intermediate "A" and "B" games will be played at Central Y.M.C.A. The Junior games are to be staged at Molson's Hall, and a general admission of 25c will be charged.

At last night's practice, captains of the two Junior teams were chosen. The probable line-up of the men on Junior and Intermediate teams will be as follows:

Intermediate "A."
Trupel
James
Starke
Blumenstein
Hilton
Boucher
Intermediate "B."
Clark
Moore
Tinkers
Greenblatt
McCaw
Schwartzman.

Junior "A" team.
Caplan
Ackman
Bruker
Thompson
Bryce
Rorke
Powell.
Junior "B" team.
Leoy
Silver
Whidden
Findlay
Snyder
Read.

These line-ups are not final, as it is expected that a larger number of men will turn up at the last practice.

A. A. ISSUES NEW AWARDS TO RUNNERS

an end to such carelessness. At the last meeting, December 1st, the following resolution was passed by the executive:

"Any team taking part in competitive athletics within the college (inter-faculty, inter-class, etc.), which plays a man or men who have not fulfilled the University requirements as to Physical Examination, shall thereby forfeit the game to the opposing team."

The above resolution is an addition to, and does not supersede the old regulation found on page 24 and 25, Art. III, Sections 8 and 9, of the society's regulations, which we publish, in order to bring it to the notice of all concerned:

8. During the session and including the Christmas holidays, all teams and individual students desiring to participate in "outside" athletics must first apply to the Athletic Association for permission, and the approval of the Director of the Department of Physical Education must be secured before such sanction is granted.

9. Should any student take part in any athletic contest not having been sanctioned as above, or who is not personally qualified under the regulations regarding eligibility, medical examinations, etc., such student shall be immediately debarred from participation in all University athletics. He shall be reported to the Committee on Physical Education, which body shall, if it sees fit, request the offender to withdraw from the University, if the consent of the Principal has been given, until Corporation shall meet to deal with the matter.

JOLLY TIME PROMISED TO SNOWSHOERS

Limited Number of Tickets Sold Rapidly.

NEW PROGRAMME.

R.V.C. Disposed of Their Allotment of Tickets—Students Show Interest.

Arrangements for the snowshoe tramp to be held at 7.30 on December 14th, from the McGill Union, have been nearly completed. Last evening, at a meeting of the social committee and representatives of the R.V.C., many important details for the coming function were decided upon.

One of the matters settled was the snowshoe problem, which seems to be bothering many of us who have not got snowshoes with us in the city. Let this be no obstacle to any, for an unlimited supply of both these and moccasins will be on hand at the Union for the occasion, so that anyone desiring to rent a pair may do so.

The programme outlined is to be of a novel character. It will commence at 7.30 at the Union, where all will assemble and where a programme of three numbers, for the course, will be filled out. At eight, the happy band will start on an excursion which will be new to most of us. At about ten o'clock the trappers will return to enjoy refreshments and a short social entertainment.

The sale of tickets has been carried on almost beyond all expectations of the executive. The disposal of the allotment of over forty tickets to the R.V.C. alone speaks most enthusiastically for the evening's success. With such a promise of hearty support from the co-eds, no men need feel bashful in coming along. Tickets are being sold at twenty-five cents for one only, but for those men who have especially wanted to bring outsiders of the university, couple tickets may be obtained, but these are of secondary importance.

Tickets are on sale at the Union, R.V.C., and from the following faculty men:

Science—Ogilvy, 2nd year.
Medicine—R. L. Hamilton, W. J. Noonan, Ackman.
Arts—H. O'Hagan, N. Egg.

HOCKEY LEAGUE HAS BEEN NAMED

Intercollegiate League Of America to Complete Plans Soon.

As a result of the second meeting of its promoters at the Biltmore Hotel, New York, further progress has been made toward the forming of an intercollegiate hockey league. As was the case at the meeting in Philadelphia a week ago five colleges approved the work accomplished to date.

G. W. Orton of the University of Pennsylvania again acted as temporary chairman, with C. L. Parsons of Yale being named the permanent chairman. The meeting voted to call the organization the Intercollegiate Ice Hockey League of America and it is expected to start the 1920-21 season with Yale, Cornell, Dartmouth, Princeton and Pennsylvania as sure members and with the hope that Harvard and one or two others will join. The meeting voted to admit any college as a charter member if it applies before December 5, when the next meeting will be held in this city.

Temporary constitution and by-laws have been drawn up and copied sent to all the larger colleges of the eastern part of the United States. It is expected that these will be accepted with practically no changes. The present plan is to have teams of six men compete. All five of the colleges which have attended the meetings are favorable to this plan. Harvard has always preferred the seven-man style of game, although when using a small rink the Crimson has played a few games with six men. As Harvard expects to have the Boston Arena available again this year, it is believed that the Crimson will insist on the seven-man team as the Arena is a big surface.

Tentative schedules have been drawn up for league games between Yale, Princeton, Dartmouth and Pennsylvania; but only one of these dates can be considered as definite and that is the Yale-Dartmouth game scheduled to take place at Hanover, New Hampshire, February 12. It is hoped by the organizers that a definite schedule will be approved at the next meeting.

Those who attended the second meeting, besides Orton and Parsons, were George Rynick of Pennsylvania, S. W. Plumb, Jr., of Dartmouth, and T. M. Bartow of Princeton.

Nothing so difficult but that man will accomplish it.—Horace.

TEAM PICTURES WILL BE TAKEN

Harrier and Track Clubs Will Meet at Notman's Studio.

The Track and Harrier Clubs are to meet at Notman's Studio this afternoon at 5 o'clock sharp to have their pictures taken. Usually one or more men forget either the date or the time, and a great deal of time is lost at the studio. This year all the men have received more than a week's notice, so that every one has been well warned, and there should be no delay whatever at the studio.

All men are asked to bring their running outfits, and any who have turned their suits in, will please leave a note to the manager or president at the Union before one o'clock, so that suits can be arranged for.

The picture of the Track Team is to be taken first, and will be taken at 5.10 p.m. sharp—absolutely no waiting—so please make it a point to be sharp on time.

The following is a list of those who will be on hand:

MED. '24 SEMI-FINALS

Win Gone From Arts '24 By Default.

Owing to the fact that Arts '23 basketball team failed to show to play off with Med. '24, the latter year are semi-final champions.

The second year Meds. of the six-year course have been putting up a decided fight for this title, and their winning it is what has been expected. In the course of the next few weeks before the holidays they will meet the best team in the other series, and to obtain not only the semi honors but to become the champions of the University.

CHRISTMAS REASONING

WITHIN the next three weeks every one of us is going to do a whole lot of shopping. Just as important as figuring what to buy is the question of where to buy.

THE advertising roster of The Daily includes practically every type of shop and every class of gift merchandise which college men will seek in the pre-Christmas period.

TO put it absolutely baldly and frankly, Men, it's up to us to make our Christmas purchases from the shops which advertise in our college paper.

A NY paper is kept alive by advertising—advertising continues only just so long as it can pull business to the advertiser. Therefore, if our college paper is to mean a thing either to us or to our advertisers, every man of us must patronize the men who do business with The Daily—and we mustn't be afraid to tell tradespeople why we buy from them.

MORAL:—

STUDENTS' COUNCIL.

There will be a meeting of the Students' Council at 12.15 to-day.

But destruction of the old institution will, apparently, prove to be the construction of a lasting McGill publication that will have an instantaneous appeal not only to the Junior Years, but to the undergraduate body of the University. For years, the need of an all-college publication has been more and more apparent; suggestions have been made without number; attempts have been started that faded into oblivion—still the need existed. "Twenty-two" has had the courage to lose its personal glory for the college; it has put an end to a failure and at the same time given rise to the need of the hour.

While there has as yet been no definite formulation of plans, it is understood that the publication will be dedicated to and financed by the men and women of '22—there will be a '22 section in it—but its essence will be of the undergraduate body of McGill. A publication for McGill, with a price within the reach of McGill, and with contents altogether "McGillian"—this should appeal.

The success of the publication is practically assured, for the "Daily" was advised last evening that Mr. A. S. Noad, B.A., has done the big thing for Old McGill by answering the plea of the organization to become the editor-in-chief. His acceptance is not only most gratifying to the Juniors, but is likewise appreciated by the undergraduate body of the University. The organization is as follows:

Editorial Board.
Editor-in-Chief—Mr. A. S. Noad, B.A.
Business Manager—W. F. Macklaier, '22.

Chairman of the Board—A. R. Lawrence, '22.

News Board.
D. Rothschild, B.Sc., Med. '22; J. M. Mitchell, Sci. '22; B. N. Holtham, Law '22; P. H. Addy, Arts '22; C. D. Fraser, Com. '22; F. B. Van Etten, Arch. '22; R.V.C. Representative to be appointed.

Patronize "Daily" advertisers.

The night was cold and chilly. The campus lights were dim; My chums said, "Don't be silly, Just show your pluck and vim."

For Kiddy-carts and Nurses
Are seen at every turn;
Please hold your patient curses,
And education learn.

I walked with rapid motion,
I slipped in graceful charms,
My head it bumped a notion,
'Twas found in Nurse's arms.
